

TOP 10

SEXIEST MOVIE SCENES

By Katya Diakow

It's no secret we all want hot, toe-curling action. And whether in real life, or on film, we crave total satisfaction. We don't want it to come off fake, it shouldn't end too quickly, and at the end of it, we'd be honoured with an award for our performance. With this formula in mind, we're listing the top movies that sizzle with on-screen chemistry.

10. Desperado

This Latino gun opera is a fast-paced flick that turns up the heat south of the border, courtesy of Antonio Banderas and Salma Hayek. In a breakthrough role, Salma plays a curvacious bookstore owner who helps a musician-turned-killing-machine avenge his lover's murder. In between the bloody showdowns, the pace slows to let us relish the sensuous love scenes. At one point, while doing it in a candlelit room, Antonio takes the spurs from his boots and runs them slowly down the length of Salma's salsa-hot body. In this position, it's easy to see how she's more than just a handy partner in crime.

Dirty talk: "Here, play something [on the guitar]. Come on, let me help you... we can improvise."

9. Body of Evidence

Madonna may have the body, but it's pretty evident she can't act. Still, as her gold-digging character's up on murder charges for screwing her rich husband to death, we can't take our eyes off her every slinky move. After lawyer Willem Defoe enters the picture and she lets down her 'defenses', they go to trial and go to town on each other. He likes to play hardball by being rough with the handcuffs, but she returns fire by dripping candle wax on his skin. It doesn't matter that the story is a mess, because the soft-core sex scenes have an S&M twist – it's hot, but it also hurts in a good way.

Dirty talk: "It's not a crime to be a great lay!" or "I fucked you, I fucked Andrew, I fucked Frank. That's what I do – I fuck. And it made me 8 million dollars!"

8. Y Tu Mama Tambien

After being ditched by their chiquitas for the summer, two best amigos have nothing (and no one) to do. That is, until they meet a super-sexy Spanish woman and they charm her into taking a road trip. The unlikely trio hit the dusty Mexican highway and soon get sidetracked by their hormones. Along the way, both horny teens learn a trick or two about arousal from the older mamacita. The hottest scene starts with a bit of dancing (and many drinks) at a cantina and ends up at the hotel with everyone in a deliciously dirty tangle. Sure, there are Spanish subtitles, but all the fiery action needs no translation.

Dirty talk: “You have to make the clitoris your best friend.” “What kind of friend is always hiding?” or “Life is like the surf, so give yourself away like the sea.”

Courtesy: MGM HomeEntertainment Inc. and Turner Entertainment Co.

“Have you ever done this before?” “I don’t know. Have you?” “I want to with you.”

7. Mulholland Drive

Why do the characters suddenly change names? Whose idea was it for a Billy Ray Cyrus cameo? What’s with all the weird conspiracies? Like most David Lynch movies, fuggedabout trying to make sense of it. Just keep your eyes on the prize... a.k.a. the two women who get it on as lesbian lovers. Naomi Watts plays a blonde with small-town, gee-whiz enthusiasm for stardom, and Laura Harring is her smokin’ hot amnesiac houseguest. Early on, their touching and make-out sessions are like an innocent sexual experiment. But as the plot thickens, there’s more moaning between the sheets and their electrifying passion turns obsessive.

Dirty talk: “This is a huge bed. Come on, get in and get a good night’s sleep.” or “Have you ever done this before?” “I don’t know. Have you?” “I want to with you.”

Courtesy: Columbia Pictures Industries, Inc.

6. Basic Instinct

From the first moment she appears on-screen, Sharon Stone oozes trouble. Underneath the surface of her ultra-sexy exterior, there's definitely more than meets the eye. Playing a bisexual vixen, author and murder suspect, she toys with the entire interrogation team by showing off her wit... and her kit. This erotic thriller turns nasty when detective Michael Douglas gets, um, deeply involved in the case. Given that her power games have him eating out of her hand, her perverse sex drive is easily satisfied with a girl-on-top scene that's still scorching more than 15 years later. For kicks, the unrated version has more scandalous shots of the femme fatale.

Dirty talk: "I'm in love with you already, but I'll nail you anyway."

From the first moment she appears on-screen, Sharon Stone oozes trouble.

"Look, we can't do this 24 hours a day, seven days a week." "Why not?"

5. Secretary

Though we've all had dirty daydreams about an office crush, usually the buck stops at the quickie-in-the-copy-room fantasy. In this off-beat indie hit, the boss-secretary relationship crosses lines of conduct that would send HR into a hissy-fit. But for Maggie Gyllenhaal as a self-harming wallflower, a severe spanking does more than boost productivity. She's a secretary who spends her days 'bonding' with her boss – played by a strung-out yet subdued James Spader. When they finally admit their feelings aloud, he's bathed her in his tub and boned her on a grass-covered bed. From her blatantly erotic upward gazes, to his controlled tone in demanding she assume the position, their S&M deviancy shows how anyone can give, and give, what they want.

Dirty talk: "Look, we can't do this 24 hours a day, seven days a week." "Why not?"

4. Eyes Wide Shut

Before Tom Cruise was a wacko Scientology crusader, he and Nicole Kidman were hot, horny and unhappily married – in real life, and in this surreal sex thriller. Things get off to a voyeuristic start as Kidman wiggles out of a little black dress revealing her A-list ass in the opening scene. Then while sharing a spliff, the couple sparks an erotic rivalry describing their adulterous fantasies. The kinky factor really gets fired up when Cruise's character crashes a secret party. It's risqué business when he finds a ritualized orgy where masked girls do the nasty while a crowd watches. Given the final cut was done just days before director Stanley Kubrick died, you could say he definitely went out with a bang.

Dirty talk: "There is something very important we need to do as soon as possible."
"What's that?" "Fuck."

Courtesy: Warner Bros.

"Now I want you two to kiss. Come on now... Never let the sun go down on an argument."

3. Wild Things

When two high school vixens accuse their guidance counsellor of rape, this trashy thriller starts piling on the plot twists and racy perks. Neve Campbell, Denise Richards and Matt Dillon take this '90s noir fave down a naughty path with no shortage of sex-drenched dialogue or gratuitous nudity. And the double-crossing doesn't end after a poolside catfight turns into a slippery grope-fest for the two femme fatales. The ultimate guilty pleasure scene has the girls getting sloshed in champagne and taking turns jumping their teacher during a scandalous threesome in a greasy hotel room. Rawr!

Dirty talk: "Guidance counsellors get to find out all sorts of interesting things."
"Now I want you two to kiss. Come on now... Never let the sun go down on an argument."

Courtesy: Columbia Pictures Industries, Inc.

2. Monster's Ball

Though this film wowed critics with its gritty storyline, most guys will only remember Halle Berry's luscious, buck-naked body. Set in the deep South, the movie's two main characters have a whackload of bad times and stubborn hang-ups. So when their desperate interracial hook-up happens, it's unforgettably raw and thorny. Halle may have won an Oscar for her sad portrayal of a struggling widow, but when her foxy body gets on top of Billy Bob and they go at it like animals on the living room floor, this performance gets our props.

Dirty talk: "Make me feel good!"

Courtesy: Lions Gate Home Entertainment

"Have you ever had a chick with a heart-shaped ass?"

1. 9½ Weeks

The quickest way to a man's heart may be through his stomach. But here, the fastest way into Kim Basinger's pants is through any type of edible aphrodisiac. Whether she's in the kitchen, at the department store or in a rainy stairwell, her character gets hot and gets down without much coaxing needed. The intensity between Kim as an alluring art gallery assistant and Mickey Rourke's self-absorbed Wall Street shark is so persuasive, there's fire. She became a source of spank material for many drooling dudes with her pouty lips, blindfolded writhing and exquisite body. This movie takes the top spot due to its super-charged whirlwind of passion, erotic obsession and sexual creativity. It's extremely... fulfilling.

Dirty talk: "Have you ever had a chick with a heart-shaped ass?"

Courtesy: MGM Home Entertainment Inc. and Turner Entertainment Co.

